JESD Program Helps Blind to Build Strengths

"It's a tough world out there, even for sighted people, and our blind students need to develop their strengths right now, at an early age.'

That's the comment — and the job — of Mrs. Alain Zulofsky, resources teacher for the visually impaired at the Jefferson Elementary School District. She works at Daniel Webster School, Daly City, which houses five visually impaired students.

Mrs. Zulofsky works at the school full-time.

It's valuable, she says, "because I'm always here and I'm always available for anything that Warren Cushman, a feisty 8-year-old second ader from Millbrae, is the district's only totally blind pupil. He's been blind since birth.

Warren is totally integrated into Mrs. Cathy Stanghellini's second grade class. Perhaps the only difference is his desk — it's larger than those of other students, because he needs the extra room to accommodate larger braille books.

When the class reads aloud from regular texts Warren reads aloud from his braille text. He's also at a second grade math level.

But, Warren has his problems too. He wants to play kickball during recess, like his classmates. Sometimes he can; sometimes he

"I'll go out and explain to the other children how to adapt the kickball game for Warren. Being here on the scene, I'm able to deal with these types of problems quickly. But I'll also explain to Warren that there are times he will not be able to participate with other children," Mrs. Zulofsky

Being able to know when he can participate and when he can't are what Mrs. Zulofsky lumps into "social facts."

Teaching my students social skills and daily living skills is extremely important," she says. They must know how to approach people when they need assistance, and how to say no when it isn't needed. I teach them courtesy and manners because they're important in day-to-day living." Four other students in the school are Pamela Hermann, a 7-year-old kindergartener from Pacifica, is one such student. Pam is hyperactive, and needs a lot of attention and reassurance from Mrs. Zulorsky.

Pam will work independently on projects, but constantly wants to know how well she's doing. She's reassured when her work is good, but she's also told when a project isn't completed satisfacto--See BLIND, Page Two

Two Mission Street Buildings To Fall Before Wrecker's Ball

The wrecker's ball is coming to Daly City's Mis-sion Street sometime this

Two vintage buildings owned by the Daly City Redevelopment Agency will be demolished to make way for new development.

The two buildings, at 6278 and 6264 Mission Street, are in such bad shape "it's phenomenal that they still remain," according to Don Clucci, redevelopment staff plan-

One structure dates back to 1914 and the other proba-bly was built between 1930 and 1940. They have been used fairly consistently over the years, but have

The agency will spend $14,982 to have them torn down. The bid was awarded to Universal Demolition, a South San Francisco firm.

Teachers Seek Injunction on Working Days

ning to file suit seeking an injunction to halt a Jefferson Elementary School District directive that teachers work five days after schools close for the summer

Garry Bieringer, spokesman for the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, said the association has decided to have its lawyer, Dwayne Beeson, file suit with the state Education Employment Relations Board.

Teachers, on May 23, protested to district trustees over having to work the week of June 20-24, a week after pupils are dismissed for summer vacation.

There are some 400 certificated employes in the district, and about three-fourths of them are members of the association, which, however, represents all teachers.

Bieringer said the teachers have "virtually unanimously decided to have a slowdown." Lasaid teachers will not arrive at school 30 minutes prior to the beginning of class, nor will they stay after school 15 minutes after closing. He also said teachers will leave school during lunch hour and refuse to take home school work.

District trustees, who note the calendar for 1976-77 school year was adopted last June, contend that teachers must work the five additional days to receive in-service training in preparation for next September.

Teachers, however, claim the five additional days will distrupt their plans for the summer.

During the May 23 meeting, several teachers inferred the district in forcing them to work the additional days to force a quick settlement in contract negotiations.

Teachers have yet to reach a contract settlement with the Jefferson district for the 1976-77 school year.

Superintendent Peter Hansen told teachers May 23, "We'll proceed with the in-service training set up for that week. To change it, we must return to the bargaining table and negotiate.

Dennett, Valles to Join Redevelopment's PAC

Two Mission Street business people will be sworn in Wednesday as new members of the Daly City Redevelopment Agency's Project Area Committee.

Shirley Dennett and Michael Valles have been appointed to the PAC by Daly City's City Council to replace the late Chris Giotinis and Mrs. Joyce Hurwitz. Mrs. Hurwitz has become ex-official member of the committee

Ms. Dennett has been co-owner of A Growing Habit, a plant store located at 7099 Mission St., for two years. She lives in Daly City.

The bank manager is a member of the board of directors of the Mission Merchants and serves on the membership committee of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

Valles said a primary concern is to see that "residents are not priced out of their homes" in the redevelopment area.

Daly City officials and representatives of Vista Grande Cablevision have reached tentative agreement on "85 to 90 per cent" of the items the city proposes to add to the cable television company's franchise ordi-

According to City Manager David Rowe, the apparent accord comes a month after City Atty. Albert Polonsky complained that Vista Grande had ignored his attempts to discuss additions to the cable television franchise ordinance. Polonsky suggested to Daly City's City Council in early May that "a sufficient case" had been made to revoke the franchise agreement of 1975.

Polonsky said the major issue still to be resolved is "the procedure for testing and maintenance" of the Vista Grande system.

Subscribers to Vista Grande have complained to the city from time to time of bad reception. Among Polonsky's 25 suggestions of further condions to add to the franchise ordinance also are increas-

Darryl strolls into Mrs. Zulofsky's resources room, meets visitors with a hearty handshake, and then asks to use the kickball. Permission is granted. Out he bounces, dribbling the ball ahead of him. There's a chance Darryl could become totally blind Warren, Pam, Darryl, 10-year-old Paul Wurz of Daly City and another visually-impaired student work harder than sighted students.

'Their hours are longer, because they have a lot of things that need to be reinforced," Mrs. Zulofsky explains. "They have extra work so they can maintain themselves in regular classrooms."

They begin the school year earlier, too. They are taught the lay of the land: where their classrooms are, where the resources room is, the loca

Mrs. Zulofsky's job goes beyond the school day and beyond the regular school curriculum.

'I go into homes to work with the youngsters there. I counsel the students and the parents, who often need a lot of moral support."

Patients Can Take Heart From This Woman Who Knows What It's All About

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Virginia Stube of Millbrae used to lead a sheltered life. Walking across a room was difficult for her, so she preferred to sit in a chair and read. She seldom left the house and had a limited circle of friends. Even talking made her gasp for breath.

This week, Mrs. Stube attended three committee meetings and spent three days doing volunteer work at local hospitals while maintaining an active social life.

A single operation made this transformation of her life possible.

'I was a cardiac invalid," she explained. Her condition had been caused by rheumatic fever. By the time she was 14, she was under constant medical supervision and had learned to curtail her activities.

Mrs. Stube was "almost relieved" when doctors discussed operating on her heart six years ago. But, when she decided to have the operation, she felt frightened and alone

"There were so many things that were unanswered. There was no one to talk things out with; no one to say, 'This isn't unusual, what you're feeling.' The doctors understood to a point, but they'd never had heart surgery, so they couldn't fully comprehend what I was going through," she said.

Mrs. Stube was even less prepared for the success of the operation

'The first thing I could remember really clearly after the surgery was that I could breathe. I hadn't been able to breathe since I was 14," she remarked.

It was six months before she learned to accept her new self-image as a normal, healthy person.

When Mrs. Stube heard about a national organization dedicated to helping people cope with the emotions associated with heart surgery, she leaped at the chance to start a local chapter.

Through her efforts, the San Mateo County Chapter of Mended Hearts now has 35 members who are helping heart surgery patients avoid the traumas Mrs. Stube experienced. Nationally, there are 80 chapters with over 18.000 members who belong to Mended Hearts.

Only 12 members of the local chapter are permitted to make pre- or post-operative visits to heart surgery patients. To do so, they must attend a series of lecture and meet other standards set by the organization. This accreditation must be renewed every year.

The local chapter has visited 125 heart patients since it was chartered in July 1975.

"No two visits are alike," Mrs. Stube noted.

Most of the accredited members of Mrs. Stube's chapter are former heart patients themselves who can empathize with the people they counsel. Whenever possible, they are paired with patients undergoing a similar type of heart surgery

"We try not to become involved with the patient until he or she has made a firm commitment to surgery. We don't think we should influence a person's decision to have surgery," said Mrs. Stube.

Mended Hearts visitors obtain the consent of the patient's physician before calling in person or phoning the first time. They are welcome and frequent visitors at the Peninsula, Mills Memorial and Sequoia hospitals in San Mateo County.

No heart surgery presently is performed in the county, but patients are admitted to these three hospitals for care before and after surgery at other hospitals. Mrs. Stube said her chapter wants to be prepared for the day that heart surgery is performed in the county.

Some patients do have pacemakers implanted while staying at local hospitals. "I don't believe physicians consider pacemakers to be heart surgery, but Mended Hearts does," she explained. The group sends out volunteers to visit these patients, too.

When Mended Hearts visitors meet with heart patients, they stress the importance of not comparing their recovery rate to that of another person having heart surgery.

"Even when a disease is at the same point, the reactions and recovery rate are going to be totally different. It's vital to encourage people not to have a race with some other heart patient in terms of recovery," Mrs. Stube noted, adding, "It could be fatal if they try to do something too soon.

Mrs. Stube said that friends of heart patients often are guilty of describing the recovery rate of another heart patient to a person undergoing heart surgery.

Heart patients usually go through two stages before they have surgery, she noted

"At first there is denial that this could possibly be happening to you. Patients say, 'What did I do to deserve this? Why me?' " Mrs. Stube said.

Once patients accept the fact that they are going to have surgery, they begin to worry about the consequ ences, continued Mrs. Stube.

"Everything is uncertain. They worry about the outcome of the surgery. They are uncertain as far as what acceptance there will be in society, whether they'll be handicapped. If they've worked, they they'll be able to go back to work. If they are the breadwinner, they worry about not being able to continue in that role. They're also concerned that there may be subtle changes in their relationships with people near $\begin{tabular}{ll} After surgery, Mrs. Stube said people have to learn to accept themselves as being different. \\ \end{tabular}$

"In my own case, I was very fearful for an extended period of time.

It took her six months to begin to be comfortable with her new capacity for activity. Then she joined the first organization to which she'd ever belonged. - the Peninsula Hospital Auxiliary

She still volunteers at the hospital twice a week. She also volunteers at the Heart Association and serves on its board of directors, and she is the assistant Western Pacific regional chairman for the national Mended Hearts organization, a job that involves coordinating regional workshops and helping other chapters get

She served as president of the San Mateo County chapter for 18 months. Now Darrel Phillips of South San Francisco holds the position. Bill Abplanalp of San Mateo is vice-president, Matthew Boxer of Millbrae is secretary and Jim David of San Bruno is treasurer. All four have undergone heart surgery

The chapter recently took a cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) course given by the Heart Association, and will help staff a booth at the San Mateo County Fair in July, registering people for blood pressure screenings and providing information on how nutrition affects the heart and details on CPR.

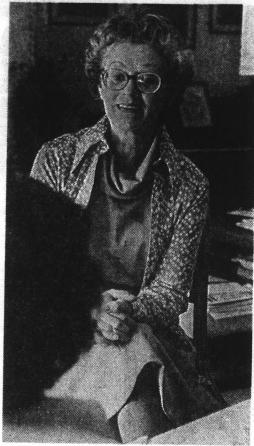

"There's a great deal of interest in CPR. One of our members wouldn't be a member if it weren't for CPR,"

The chapter meets the third Tuesday of each month at Peninsula Hospital to hear speakers and to work on improving its visiting program

"We always need more members," she said, noting that not many poeple outside of hospitals or the Heart Association have heard about Mended Hearts.

Those who belong to Mended Hearts are charged with incredible enthusiasm and dedication to helping

The organization's motto says it all: "It's great to be alive — and to help others.

The Lamaze method teaches special relaxation and breathing techniques which help to reduce the discomforts of labor and the need for drugs.

UNION PLUMBERS ARE EXPERIENCED TRAINED CRAFTSMEN

Your union-trained expert plumber who does your work correctly and quickly and the state licensed Plumbing Contractor who guarantees his work are your best bargains for repairs, remodeling and improvements, as well as new construction.

But you should know that not all service and repair contractors hire union plumbers. This becomes very evident at Local 467 where more and more during the past few years we have received complaints regarding the poor quality of plumbing work. In almost every case the complaint concerns a contractor who-although licensed by the state - hires non-union "plumbers."

This advertisement is being published to urge you to hire contractors who employ union plumbers - for your sake and for our sake, too. At Local 467 we do not like to be embarrassed by the bad work of amateurs. You will benefit also because your plumbing work will be done promptly and efficiently and will not have to be redone later by a professional.

We are sometimes asked, "Why don't you organize the contractors who don't hire union-trained personnel?" The answer is that, if we did, we would have to take all their employees into the union and, for the most part, they simply are not qualified to be in our ranks. A "State Licensed Contractor" is not necessarily a qualified journeyman plumber. As a matter of fact, all it me that he has passed a written test. Our members are products of our management/labor-sponsored Joint Apprenticeship Training Program. It takes 8000 hours of on-the-job training plus 864 hours of related classroom work to become a journeyman plumber.

Don't accept anything less than the skill and knowledge this man possesses. Have your plumbing repaired by a qualified union craftsman working for a participating local contractor.

The formation of a special six-member team available 24 hours daily to evaluate and recommend treatment for abused and neglected children has been proposed to the county Board of Supervisors.

The proposal came from the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee, which had been instructed by the board last January to study current programs and recommend new ones in light of the excessive caseloads of social workers.

The 50-member committee suggested that the county give "top priority" to staffing a "multi-disciplinary team" with well qualified trained workers.

The committee proposed a pediatrician, child psychiatrist, nurse, attorney, law enforcement officer and a social worker. The social worker of the day would serve as the coordinator of the team.

The committee further recommended that the team be based at Chope Community Hospital. The proximity of a pediatric unit to child workers and related profes sional staff is important, the committee stated in its Function of the team, the advisory group explained, would be to evaluate cases of neglected and abused children and to determine which county services could provide the most appropriate treatment.

"The multi-disciplinary team approach to treating of child abuse and neglect," the report said, "is to bring more coordinated and effective services through ongoing services to families and children."

The board chose to postpone discussion of the report pending a response from Dr. George Pickett, director of the Department of Health and Welfare. County Manager David L. Nichols was asked to prepare a cost analysis of the proposed programs.

Although the board will review the report at its June 28 meeting, no decision on the proposals will be made until budget study sessions are held in July.

Besides the special team recommendation, the committee listed nine other suggested changes in the overall delivery of children's services

They include:

· That the county contract with the Family Services Agency . . . for crisis counseling and crisis shortterm foster care for adolescents.

 That a unit be formed within the Social Service Division to divert children from out-of-home placement through support and treatment of neglected and abused children in their homes

• That a single county receiving home be established to maximize care and reduce staff costs. That a county staff person be available 24 hours daily for consultation to the receiving home.

• That the mental health unit assign a member to

• That the county staff provide stronger support service to foster home parents.

ing home is overcrowded and that foster homes are limited, there is a need for short-term "diversion

A new project called "A Place to Stay" already has been started by the Family Service Agency. The committee suggested that the county contract with FSA to provide the temporary shelter and counseling for adoles-

Currently, 10 temporary foster homes have been licensed and five more are pending. To date, the com-mittee reported, 25 children have remained in their own homes with the aid of counseling at the temporary centers and 10 have remained in their own for an average of two weeks.

Additionally, the FSA study group recommended that a 10-member unit be established in the Social Service Division to treat abused and neglected children in their own homes

The unit would be comprised of three currently employed and three new social workers, a supervisor, a clerk and two typists. The caseload would consist of 20 children per social worker.

The unit plan, which was approved by social service administators and staff who served on the committee, should be implemented for three years with periodic

Sponsors Pick Posy Princess

Lori Motroni, a 31/2-year-old San Bruno girl, was selected the 1977 Posy Parade princess in a drawing at the San Bruno Herald.

Lori is a resident of 301 Alcott Road. Harry Costa of the San Bruno Optimist Club sponsors of the 37th annual Posy Parade selected the name of Lori from scores of names that were entered.

San Bruno girls selected to the Princess' court were Danielle Carter, 5; Stacey Osborn, 4; Diana Osterlund, 5, and Denell Larson, 6½.

The princess and her court will ride in a float in the parade which will be held June 5 at 1 p.m. All Peninsula children 14 and under are eligible to participate in the parade, entering in any of 10 categories

Due to the drought this year, the Optimist Club is requiring that only 25 per cent of the floral decorations be real.

SMCC Building Plans Voted

Although the price was a little higher than they expected, the trustees of the San Mateo County ommunity College District have approved a bid for construction of the district's proposed administration building.

The low bidder on the project is Arntz Brothers of San Rafael. The firm's bid is $1,428,000, about 10 per cent more than the $1.3 million anticipated earlier by the trustees.

The 4-0 vote of the trustees (Trustee Robert Tarver was absent) ended nearly a decade of fretting about a location for the district's central office. Over the years, this matter had be celebre within the district. It weighed heavily on several trustees and at least one former chancellor. It had a bearing on several had a bearing on several elections. It helped to stimulate controvery and arguments throughout this

As the district grew to three schools, the central office was eventually located on rented property in San Mateo. Because the land was not owned by the district, the monthly rental was paid to someone else, which irritated any number of critics who saw that money as being frittered

There was consistent pressure to find a districtowned place where the office could be located. Plans to move into existing space at the College of San Mateo were quashed on more than one occasion.

Finally, because of a windfall of nearly $1 million received last year from the state, the district suddenly had enough cash on hand to buy a new build-ing outright. But where to locate it? CSM was again the answer.

Good morning, good cooks. What's the earliest "Early American" food?

Hint No. 1: It probably was made in the galley of the Mayflower and in the cottages of America's earliest settlers. As a matter of fact, this nutritious food was discovered accidentally a thousand or more years ago by Arabs and has been enjoyed by people all over the world ever since. In Scotland, it's called "Bonny Clabber"; the Pennsylvania Dutch call it "smearcase."

If the fact that it was produced in cottages hasn't already tipped you off, then here's another clue: the food is highly nutritious, 100 per cent usable with no waste, economical and can be used as is or in hundreds of different ways.

One final clue: you'll find it in most refrigerators.

The answer? It's cottage cheese.
People who research this kind of thing say that Kanana, an Arab trader, carried milk in a pouch made from the dried stomach of an animal, the usual method of packaging food for transporting on camel caravans. A combination of desert heat, the bumpy ride and rennin (an enzyme found naturally in the stomach lining of mammals) caused the milk to coagulate into good tasting, creamy curds.

The name "cottage" comes from the fact that for centuries in Europe and other countries, it was made in cottage kitchens, using milk left over after the cream had been skimmed off to churn butter.

Up until a few years ago, a scoop of cottage cheese right out of the container was typically served on a bed of lettuce, a peach half or on a pineapple slice. But imaginative homemakers, with the help of home economists, have found hundreds of new uses for cottage cheese, especially in cooking, all the way from party dips to gourmet meals.

GARDEN PATCH CASSEROLE

- 11/2 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- tablespoon flour
- 3 eggs 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 11/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper 2 (10 oz.) packages broccoli, cooked and drained
- 1 (17 oz.) can whole kernel corn 1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

Beat or blend the one and one-half cups cottage, half cup sour cream, one tablespoon flour, three eggs, one and one-half teaspoons salt and fourth teaspoon pepper. Fold in the two tablespoons minced onion, two packages of cooked and drained broccoli, and the whole kernel corn. Pour into 2-quart casserole, top with the fourth cup parmesan cheese. Bake in 325 degree oven 45 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Additional serving ideas, nutrition and home care information and more than 25 new recipes are contained in a free booklet, "Try Something New with Cottage Cheese" available from participating grocers, dairy drive-ins and home delivery milkmen. Consumers not able to find a copy can request one from the California Milk Advisory Board, Box 4680, Modesto, Ca. 95352. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed legal-size

OFFICER COMMENDED

Chief David A. Hansen, left, awarded a "Certificate of Commendation" to Officer Richard Miller for his capture of an armed robbery suspect. On May 16 at 11:30 a.m. the Fotomat in St. Francis Square Shopping Center was robbed and Michael Charles Ramirez, 33, San Francisco, was arrested by Miller for allegedly committing the offense. Steve Daly, vice president of Serramonte's 10-speed bicycle riding club, the Sprockets, recently participated in the U.C. Davis Double Century 200-mile bike ride. Steve's time was about 17 hours.

Steve was the youngest of the 1,200 participants. He left Davis at 5:15 a.m. and returned at 11:10 p.m. There was a one-hour lunch stop. The ride was through Vaca-ville, Lake Berryessa, Clear Lake and back to Davis. Steve enjoyed this 200-mile excursion and hopes to participate again next year

Four Serramonte students competed in the "Hands On" Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest finals in Whit-

Mike Benedetti, Fred Pisani, and alternates Dan Lara and Ron Malia had to beat 200 other school teams to earn the right to compete in the finals.

Lara says each car supplied had seven engine prob-lems and the teams were judged on the number of problems they located, the time it took to find the problems, and on written test scores

The Serramonte students took 23rd place in California. The students as well as suto-shop teacher Rick Escalambre deserve congratulations.

Serramonte's Executibe Board, comprised of student body officers of the school and class presidents. recently held its annual end-of-the-year dinner at the Treasure Island Officers' Club

Accompanying the students were principal Dion Dubois, Student Activities Director Bernedette Crnich, Vice Principal-Administration Al Campbell and Attendance Supervisor Mike Rueda.

A beautiful buffet dinner was enjoyed by all. After mer, student body secretary Debbie Hutto James Theis, student body president, with an engraved silver pen and pencil set which the members of the Board had purchased. Bernedette Crnich, the Board's advisor, was presented with roses for her help during the

The Executive Board dinner was enjoyed by all who attended and culminated a year of hard work.

The Serramonte Boosters Club will sponsor the last Sports Award Spaghetti Dinner of the school year on June 7 at 6:30 in the Serramonte cafeteria.

The most valuable and most improved players of softball, golf, tennis, gymnastics, baseball, track and field, and badminton will be announced. Athletes of the year also will be recognized.

The cost for the dinner and awards ceremony is $2.50 for adults and $1.75 for students. The public can attend.

The Serramonte Music Department sponsored its third annual Potluck Dinner and Concert May 25. The concert band, jazz band, and concert choir performed after a delicious potluck dinner. The proceeds from the dinner and concert went to the Debra Burrows Memorial Fund, which sends an outstanding music student to music camp. The winner of the camp scholarship this year is Eric Herzog. Loretta McNeil is the alternate.

Congratulations to the Girls Varsity Gymnastics team for winning the N.P.L. Championship.

Team members are Rowena Holman, Diana Law, Lori Stables, Lisa Stables, and Marnitha Haynes. They will go to the Central Coast Section meet in San Jose June 3-4. Congratulations and good luck in the C.C.S.

Serramonte's Junior-Senior Prom was May 21 in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. The band was "Sass" and was enjoyed by the 145 couples who attended. The 1977 prom was a success!

a couple of runs in the sixth)

One of the problems of expansion and the consequent force-feeding of youngsters on to major league rosters which is seldom touched on is the new composition of benches which has resulted from the metamor-

No, I am not talking about what dug-out benches are made of, but about part-time players, also known as reserves and "the bench.

It used to be that big league benches were peopled almost exclusively by journeyman players who weren't quite good enough to play every day, by specialists who were knew their limitations, or by former regulars who were past their primes — but seldom by promising youngs-

The journeymen and the specialists and the over-the-hill gangs all had one thing in common. They were happy to be on a big league roster. Many considered themselves lucky, making big league money without the pressure of having to perform daily. Yet, they were an accented and important part of the team, and their niches allowed them to keep their pride.

If a promising youngster was not good enough to play regularly, he was shipped out to the farm until he was ready. This, too, was accepted as part of normal practice by the young players. While they were usually disappointed, they were seldom bitter, unless they were playing for the Yankees, who often kept future Hall of Famers at Newark for five years.

Now, of course, there aren't enough farms to handle such youngsters, and even if there were, the kids wouldn't go because 1) their bodies are needed to fill the rosters of 26 rather than 16 teams, and 2) with the recent bonus and salary structure, millionaires cannot be allowed to play in Ardmore, Okla., to $1,000 gates

THE FORMER GREATS can't be kept on the benches because you don't keep a guy making $80,000 a year as a pinch-hitter, unless you're a very rich team, like, for example, the Dodgers, who can keep Boog Powell on the bench, and the Reds, who can afford feeding splinters to Bob Baily.

Now, if owners must keep $80,000 players on the bench, they prefer to keep young $80,000 players there because at least they are long-term investments.

As a consequence, however, there is much unrest because no spry young athlete is ever satisfied in the role of a reserve. Bitterness and sniping sets in and dissension often takes over.

Aside from the fact of unrest, young bench men are seldom as effective as old-timers because when they do go off the bench they have something to prove: they have to take advantage of the situation to make a show. So they'll go for the 400-foot homerun where the single to the opposite field would do. The vet has little to prove, because he's either done it all or not done it in the past, because he knows that no matter how spectacular he may be, he's headed back to the bench, anyway. Thus, he can afford to do the effective thing rather than the flashy thing. Compared to the young guy, he has little pressure on him. The less pressure, the better results.

ON THE GIANTS, for example, Willie McCovey would possibly be more effective as a spot player. But he makes a little too much money for that. Jack Clark makes a little too much money for that. Jack Clark would probably be better off in the minors this year, as would Johnny Lemaster. Maybe a Ron Fairly type could fill in for Clark until he gets his bearings, a Bob Baily could fill in at first and third and the outfield. And maybe the Giants could be winning more while waiting for the youngsters to develop. Meanwhile, they could please those dwindling numbers of fans who don't necessarily want to see winning baseball, but at least sound, well played baseball.

As this is written, incidentally, the Giants are last in the National League in batting average, homeruns and runs scored. In fact, only Toronto in the American League has hit as few homers as the Giants, and only Kansas City and Cleveland have hit fewer. Only Baltimore in the AL has scored less. If there is some consolation, it's that Cincinnati has hit only two homers more than the Giants, the Phillies only four more. Their fans had a right to expect slugging from their teams, local fans did not. So imagine how Reds and Philadelphia

As I pointed out during the winter, Giants fans had no right to expect any power at all after the Giants lost their numbers one and two sluggers, Bobby Murcer and Gary Matthews. Even with Matthews and Murcer, the Giants were one big slugger away from having adequate run production. I suppose the front office counted on come-backs by McCovey and Darrell Evans to take up the slack left by Murcer and Matthews, and the emergence of Clark to fill in the slot for the extra slugger they needed. Thus far, McCovey and Evans have at least partially fulfilled their rolls, but as mentioned last week, the element of Clark is missing.

THE GIANTS may have already effected a trade by the time this appears in print, which probably make me appear foolish, as is normal. But as I write this, reports are that the Giants are negotiating with the Cardinals for a right-handed power hitting outfielder in exchange for an infielder, of which the Giants have an abundance, and possibly a starting pitcher, of which no team has an abundance. This is very interesting, because the only thing the Cardinals have that even loosely resembles a right-handed power-hitting outfielder is second year man Hector Cruz, who hit .228 with 13 homeruns last year, and who is sitting the bench with a .260 BA and one

If this rumor is true, I fail to see the logic of trading for another unproven youngster who plays the same position (right field) as Jack Clark, the latter of whom must play regularly to develop. If Cruz were a good center fielder, it would be a different matter.

A rumor that makes more sense is the one which has the Giants offering a front-line pitcher to the Cubs for Jerry Morales. Morales is a proven vet with a track record of being a right-handed swinger who will hit .280 with 15 homeruns and who will hit with men on base. Yet, he is still only 28 and plays all outfield positions well, including center. And the Cubs, who have a surplus of power, need pitching more than St. Louis needs infielders or pitchers, so might be willing to settle for a one-up rather than a two-for-one trade.

Ideally, the Giants would trade for Bobby Murcer, who hits ad fields and can play center even better than Morales. But the Cubs like him and the Giants couldn't IT'S EASY TO SEE why Maury Wills and Jim Simpson are the back-up team on Saturday's televised games. God, they're inept. They were seldom in the Giants-St. Louis game, often talking through two or three batters about the anniversary of the flight of Charles Lindbergh or Wills' kid or something that happened 20 years ago or making unwise cracks about irrelevancies, without once bringing the viewer up on the count on the batter or the general game situation.

They issued several errors in fact, made no attempts at explaining controversies on the field, gave no information that couldn't have been taken out of the morning box scores by the ordinary fan, and in general didn't do their homework on the two teams.

Ken Reitz Is More Relaxed

'That was kind of fun." said Ken Reitz, the former Jefferson High (Daly Cit-

Reitz, who was traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the San Francisco Giants, and ended up back with the Cardinals, was alluding to the first grand slam of his baseball career.

He hit it Friday night as the Cards defeated the Montreal Expos 7-3. Reitz' homer capped a six-run rally in the fourth inning and came off loser Santo Alcala, who was making his first start for the Expo since being acquired from Cincinnati last week.

"I think I'm playing a little more relaxed now," said Reitz, who has been one of the cards' top hitters in the last three weeks.

"At the beginning of the year, I was trying a little bit too hard. It was the first slam I've ever hit , but I hope I hit another some-

CCS Baseball Finals Next

Another Bordi One-Hitter

By JOHN MURPHY One of these days El Camino High pitcher Rich Bordi is going to throw a no-hitter.

Saturday at College of San Mateo Bordi tossed his fourth one-hitter of the season as El Camino captured its third straight Central Coast Section Region I title by defeating Hillsdale 12-0.

El Camino (26-1) now advances to the CCS finals at Municipal Stadium in Salinas this weekend. The Colts will attempt to capture their second section crown in Leadoff hitter Danny O'Regan singled sharply off Knight starter Bob Harrison to get the Colts rolling in the bottom of the first. After O'Regan stelle second the first. After O'Regan stole second, Harrison walked Rick Doran and John Donalaya to load the bases

However, two fine defensive plays by Knight third baseman Mark Rubino got

Hillsdale out of the inning with only minimal damage.

First, Rubino rangled to his left to initiate a 5-4-3 double play as O'Regan scampered across the plate with the Colts' first run. Then, after another walk, Rubino made another great play to nail Mike Nickas at first for the third out of the inning.

But not even Brooks Robinson could have saved Hillsdale in the second inning.
Randy Rico and Dana Ynostroza led off the inning with base hits. Ed Finnigan was then retired on a pop-up but O'Regan and Doran followed with RBI singles to make the score 3-0 Harrison had a two-and-two count on Donalaya but then threw six consecutive balls to walk Donalaya and Bordi to force in a run. Exit Harrison

First baseman Bob Biagini came into First baseman Bob Biagini came into pitch and picked up where his predecessor left off by tossing eight more consecutive balls to put EC ahead 6-0. An infield error, a wild pitch and a two-run double by Ed Finnigan plated the Colts' final four runs of the inning.

Eric Layton stepped to the mound for Hillsdale in the third inning, and gained a measure of respectability for the Knights.

Layton, with considerable help from defensive whiz Rubino at third, no-hit the Fittingly enough, it was Layton who spoiled things for good in the seventh. He led off the inning by chopping a high bounder to shortstop, and then outraced Finnigan's perfect throw to first to ruin Bordi's no-hitter. Once again O'Regan led the Colts at the plate with a pair of hits and an RBI.

The junior sensation went six-for-eight overall with four runs-batted-in in the Region I playoffs.

El Camino's victory, besides ending Hillsdale's season, snapped a 10-game Knight win skein.

Angry accusations have been made by officials of Suicide Prevention that Dr. Mike Rankin, program chief of the county Depart-ment of Health and Wel-fare's Mental Health fare's Mental Health Division, is "deliberately obstructing" the organiza-tion's efforts to get funds for its Befriender Pro-

Rankin rebutted the charge, saying his concern is one of priorities, not personalities. Services with top priority, he said, include improvement of children's services and the opening of Canyon Hospital as a skilled nursing facility for the montelly ill for the mentally ill.

At stake is an additional $36,800, sought by Suicide Prevention from the county. The agency will get $60,386, an increase of some $3,600, this year for a telephone line to the Coast-

The application for approval of the allocation is pending before the Mental Health Advisory Board of San Mateo County. It will be heard June 8 at 7 p.m. Charlotte Ross, executive director of Suicide Prevention, said, "We don't know why, but Dr. Rankin is engaged in an exercise of distortion and is blatantly maneuvering to block our effort to win the board's support. He has taken this on as a personal mission for some unknown

Rankin said, "Mrs. Ross is entitled to her opinion. I don't think it's necessary to comment on that. Our main motive is to serve as many people as we can in critical need with as much money as we have available."

Daniel Klein, president of the Suicide Prevention Board of Trustees, said, "The center is asking if there isn't really something else going on. Each time a straight answer has been provided to concerns that have been raised by Dr. Rankin, a new issue is brought forth." He noted the same query was raised by board member Dr. Theodore Sabot, in regard to "something more going on in this matter."

Klein emphasized that at a hearing last Monday night, "It was clearly acknowledged that the Befriender Program is needed, effective and economical.

He said facts, figures and answers to questions appeared to satisfy the board. But when it called for a vote and appeared ready to approve it, Rankin intervened. Klein states,

"Then — and only then — did Dr. Rankin announce he had 'special information' he would present later, if they would just postpone

Klein said the program must be dropped June 30, unless further funding is authorized. The Befriender Program has been a threevear demonstration project, initially funded by the federal government

Klein charged the second delay is "the latest example of tactics in what appears to be a concerted effort by the Mental Health Services Program Office to block support for this community program."

Rankin said, "The Suicide Prevention application was not on the Monday night agenda. I have some questions to raise about the figures on the Befriender Program, which Mrs. Ross presented to the advisory board at the last board meeting May 11.

"These questions have

Klein asserted. "Fragmentation, it is beginning to seem, is being redefined to mean services not directly provided — and controlled — by county mental health services."

Rankin commented "We:

San Mateo County, which participated in the street widening, has given the district $90,000 to be used for noise abatement at Col-ma Elementary School.

More than 50 persons, mostly members of the county's Regional Planning Committee, met in Burlingame last week to discuss cleaner skies, water and air for the Bay Area.

Taking part in a roundtable workshop set up by the Association of Bay Area Governments, they offered citizen-level comment on environmental planning.

"This is a new role for Bay Area local governments and citizens," he said, "an attempt to create a plan from the bottom

Help for Bureau Sought

San Mateo County's Convention and Visitors. Bureau is asking cities in the county to increase financial participation.

John Steen, executive director, and Joseph Geller, bureau president, made the appeal to members of the Millbrae City... Council last week.

The bureau is asking cities to increase from 12 to 15 per cent proceeds from the Transient Occupancy Tax (commonly known as the hotel/motel tax) which go directly to tax) which go directly to the bureau from the cities.

Several cities, including Brisbane, Pacifica and San Carlos, already have opted for the 15 per cent dona-tion. Others, such as Bur-lingame, Redwood City and San Mateo, have reacted positively to the proposal,

"The additional three per cent would help to supplement the cost of doing business," Steen told Millbrae councilmen. "We need the additional monies just to stay even with what we have been doing.

Steen said that during the past three years the bureau's cost of printing has increased 23 per cent, postage 18 per cent, and production and development of brochures and education of the steel of the advertising 25 per cent. Last year, the bureau received $126,543 from the cities and another $100,000 from San Mateo County. If all cities approve the three per cent hike, the bureau will receive $175,414 this year, based on last year's estimates.

When the Airport Plaza Hotel in Millbrae reopens, this county will be the fifth largest in the state in total number of rooms, yet we are 10th in the state in amount of money used for promotion of conventions, Steen said.

"All the money we get,"
he said, "goes into sales efforts for the county Today, we are working on business that won't be here for another two or three Steen pointed out to councilmen, "The tax is paid for by visitors. It is not an additional tax on city residents.'

Millbrae now puts all its income from the Transient Occupancy Tax into the general fund. According to City Administrator Lee Horner, "a 15 per cent contribution rate would have the effect of reducing general fund revenues by $2,370."

What's new? "The Unsettling of America," by Wendell Berry (Sierra Club, $8.95). When it hits the book stores and the libraries it will explode over the face of

From excerpts found in "Co. Evolution," we learn that Berry finds two types of minds in America - the exploiters and the nurturers. The exploiters he calls conquerors. They are specialists, experts. Their standard is efficiency; their goal is money, profit. They think in terms of numbers, quantities, hard facts.

The exploiters are in control when salesmanship replaces craftsmanship and statesmanship. Theirs is "the craft of persuading people to buy what they do not need and do not want for more than it is worth." In politics, the craft of the exploiter is to "sell despotism and avarice as freedom and democracy." In business it is to "sell sham and frustration as luxury and satisfac-

Once the exploiters conquered Mexico and destroyed Tenochtitlan; now they attack coal fields and farmlands with bulldozers. Once they opened the New World to trade in furs; now they deal in calculated outdating and out-moding, in the flimsification of goods and in creating the hysterical self-dissatisfaction of consumers that is indigenous to our society.

The goal of the nurturer, on the other hand, is health 'his land's health, his own, his family's, his community's, his country's." The nurturer asks a question which never bothers the exploiter: "What is its capacity? (That is, how much can be taken from it without diminishing it? What can it produce dependably for an indefinite time?)" He serves land, household, community, Berry finds-these terms not only describe a division between people, but also within persons. "We are all to some extent the products of an exploitive society, and it would be foolish and self-defeating to pretend that we do not bear its stamp.

Nevertheless, the existence of the exploiter and the nurturer leads him to ask what is the cause of these divisions. "There are no doubt many causes, complex both in themselves and in their interaction. But pertinent to them all, I think, is our attitude toward work. The growth of the exploiter's revolution on this continent has been accompanied by the growth of the idea that work is beneath human dignity, particularly any form of hand work. We have made it our overriding ambition to escape work, and as a consequence have debased work until it is only fit to escape from. We have debased the products of work, and have in turn been debased by Using terms that apply to all men, rather than one race or another, Berry charges that "out of this contempt for work arose the idea of a nigger: at first somebody, and later some thing, that would relieve us of the burden of work. If we began by making niggers of people, we have ended by making a nigger of the world. We have taken the irreplaceable energies and materials of the world and turned them into jimcrack labor saving devices. We have made of the rivers and oceans and even the winds niggers to carry away our refuse that we think we are too good to dispose of decently ourselves. And in doing this to the world that is our common heritage and bond, we have returned to making niggers of people: we have become each others' niggers

"We have tried to escape the sweat and sorrow promied in Genesis — only to find that, in order to do so. we must foreswear love and excellence, health and joy."

Berry warns that "care of the earth is our most ancient and most worthy and, after all, our most pleasing responsibility. To cherish what remains of it, and to foster its renewal is our only legitimate hope

With the excerpts of Berry's book before us, let us hope that "The Unsettling of America" will be widely read by a people who have scattered human life "out in a reckless horizontal sprawl.

Water Pours From Broken Main at Airport Terminal

A break in a 12-inch water main serving the ncompleted North Terminal at San Francisco International Airport poured thousands of gallons of water on the ground last Thursday.

Airport officials said the break occurred during the night and was not discovered for hours.

Construction workers said the water loss might have amounted to a million gallons. Airport officers said that estimate was far too high.

What happened, they said, was that a Tconnection on the construction site gave way under pressure after a weight had been accidentally

"It is all pumped out and dried up now," an airport employe said.

There was "a period of calm in the early 70's with students coming to class fairly regularly, he noted. Then, the problem seemed to explode again a couple of years ago.

Oliver's Tourney Winners Celebrate

and RAY COSTELLO was "low net" at the 16th Annual Golf Tournament sponsored by LEO CARDOSI and TONY LA TORRE, owners of OLIVER'S restaurant. Following the tourney, which was held at the Lake Merced Golf Course, a big crowd showed up that evening at the South San Francisco restaurant for a prime rib dinner, door prizes, and more fun. The DEL POMPA-DORES, a local group with the 50's and 60's sound, appear on alternate Sundays at BAYHILL LOUNGE.

Lunches are lavish at LYLE'S in South San Francisco. A brief mention of the selection available is to be found in Lyle's advertisement today. Also several luncheon specials. Call ahead for today's feature....BIG NICK MAN TZOROS, the likeable chef at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, is recovering from a mild heart attack at Mills Hospital and we all wish him a speedy recovery. Sure miss his big smile in the range area. Nich has been catering to this scribe's appetite for the past 20 years...ENRICO ROMANO returned from a four-day vacation in Las Vegas.
